Highway Director Westgard Here to Make Colored Films for Showing East.

On his way to Elephant Butte to superintend the making of colored motion pictures of the big dam and lake, R. M. Hall, director A. L. Westgard, of the National Highway association, plotting a party of six persons in two Paige cars, has arrived in El Paso from southern New Mexico and Arizona points, and will leave Sunday for a three days' trip and visit to the irrigation reservoir. Mr. Westgard and party have completed a picture making trip through the southwestern and Pacific coast states and are on their way into Texas to film the points of interest for the tourist. The director is accompanied by Mrs. Westgard and their son, besides R. C. Price, camera man, an assistant and a cook. They are equipped with a complete camping outfit and scientific instruments, as well as cameras. The expedition has been financed by the Combition Picture company, and is under the auspices of the National Highway association.

Will Photograph El Paso Completely. Upon the return of the Westgard party from the dam hundreds of pictures will be made of El Paso's public buildings, industries, boulevards, homes and the military camps. Secretary George H. Clements, of the commerce chamber, will point out the sights to the photographers.

To Film Texas Attractions. Mr. Westgard said Saturday morning he expected to meet here D. E. Colp, secretary treasurer of the Texas Roads association, when the party returns from the dam and take him in one of the cars through many of the Texas counties, along the best high-ways, filming pictures that will interest the traveler. They plan to make pictures of 10,000 goats on the ranch of J. B. Murray, near June, Texas, as one of the examples of the livestock industry in the state, and have hundreds of other points picked out.

Picturing the Whole Country. Mr. Westgard said that entertainment, as well as education, is necessary for the highway promoter to furnish to the cross country traveler, and for that reason he organized the 25,000 mile tour he is on now, when the party returns from the dam and take him in one of the cars through many of the Texas counties, along the best high-ways, filming pictures that will interest the traveler. They plan to make pictures of 10,000 goats on the ranch of J. B. Murray, near June, Texas, as one of the examples of the livestock industry in the state, and have hundreds of other points picked out.

He said he recently drove from Tucson to Alo, Ariz., and made pictures of the Xyle mission and Pangua village west of Tucson. He doubts if the Tucson-Alo-Tuma road would be passable for any except the motorists who don't mind rough roads. He said the road from Aden to Mesilla Park, N. M., is very bad.

It is planned by the promoters of the picture tour to show them in theaters under the title, "Know America, the Land We Love: An Eye Lecture on God's Country."

Mr. Price, the camera operator, is a native of El Paso, but has not been here for many years. Mr. Westgard said.

Wanted.—Every merchant or concern in El Paso and vicinity who does a credit business to call and investigate the New N. C. Credit File. No work. No worry accounts. Always paid.

WANT BUCHANAN
CROSSING OPEN

Realty Owners in West End District Against That Project of Subway.

Property owners on San Francisco and West San Antonio streets west of Santa Fe say they will oppose the closing of the Buchanan crossing, as planned in connection with the proposed sinking of the railroad tracks into an open subway from Florence to Buchanan street, brought out by a conference between city officials and railroad managers Friday.

Several of the property owners discussing the matter Saturday stated emphatically that the Buchanan crossing would not be closed, no matter what agreement the city council and railroads might reach on the subject, unless the courts hold that the streets of the city belong to the council and railroads to do with as they please.

Would Seriously Injure Owners. Z. T. White said he did not believe that the city council, when the matter was properly presented would consent to the closing of the Buchanan crossing. To do so, he said, would work serious injury to all property on San Francisco and West San Antonio streets west of Santa Fe, as it would virtually place the property there in what plumbers would call "dead ends." It would force all traffic from the upper valley, now entering San Francisco street over the Buchanan crossing, to continue on Santa Fe street, he said.

Owners Protest; Allege Discrimination. Realty owners on San Francisco street say they are more than willing to see the railroad tracks sunk on the Santa Fe, Oregon, Mesa, Stanton, Kansas and Campbell street crossings, but that they do not think it just that values on those streets should be increased at the expense of other property; that the value of business property on San Francisco street should not be depreciated in order to make valuable for business purposes property on North Oregon, Mesa, Stanton, Kansas and Campbell streets.

UNIVERSITY MEN
ENJOY SMOKER

Songs, Boxing and Buffet Luncheon Form Part of Evening's Entertainment.

Corn cob pipes and college men got together Friday evening at the new University club in the Martin building and for two hours pipe smoke, college songs and fun were mixed for the entertainment of the 150 El Paso college men who attended the informal opening of the college club's quarters on the seventh floor of the new Martin building.

The members sat in front of the big brick fire place in the common room of the club and enjoyed the program of entertainment which the social committee had arranged for the informal opening. Norman Walker was in charge of this program. Judge Walter D. Howe, University of Indiana, led the singing and played the accompaniment on the piano. F. C. Jones played "rag" and college songs preceding the program and played second base in the quartet. Paul Nafe sang several solos and had to sing all over again because of the demand of the college men. Richard von Wagner, a young pianist who recently came to El Paso, surprised the crowd with his classical selections played like a "big league" soloist. C. A. Brann and W. H. Fryer gave in imitation of Folsch & Perlmutter, discussing business. A. W. Norcop, president of the club, made a short introductory talk about the club. Then came the surprise of the program. Jim Brown, Notre Dame '17, appeared with a "stable" of boxers from his Smelter arena and offered two fast bouts. A buffet dinner was served during the evening in the club kitchen.
